THIRTY-FOURTH ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

TRUSTEES OF THE WORCESTER LUNATIC HOSPITAL.

To His Excellency the Governor and the Honorable Council of the Commonwealth.

In submitting their Report for the year ending on the 30th of September, 1866, the Trustees desire to express their profound acknowledgments to God for His providential care over the institution during the past year, and for that measure of success which He has vouchsafed to the labors of its officers, in the restoration of health and joy to many, and in promoting the comfort and safety of all its inmates.

By the Report of the Superintendent, which is herewith submitted, and which gives a full and detailed statement of the condition of the hospital during the year, it appears that the whole number of patients in the house has been 630.

	Males.	Females.	Total.
There were in the House on the 1st of October, 1865,	169	172	341
Admitted during the year,	163	126	289
Discharged recovered,	42	47	89
improved,	58	37	95
not improved,	15	10	25
Died,	27	13	40
Whole number discharged,	142	107	249
Remaining Sept. 30, 1866,	190	191	381

It appears by the foregoing table that the mortality of the last year has been slightly larger than the average of several preceding years. This, however, has not been occasioned by the prevalence of any acute disease in the house, but was owing to the dropping off of old cases of epileptics, paralytics and other chronic diseases, and to the death of several who were fatally diseased and died within a few days after admission. Not a single death has occurred except from chronic disease; and no sickness from acute disease except very slight cases of indisposition for only a day or two of duration. Indeed, we may state without exaggeration, that the hospital has rarely been invaded by any form of acute disease for the last ten or twelve years, or since our very efficient means of ventilation were put in operation, by which we are able to convey a continual current of fresh air, either warm or cold, to every apartment occupied by patients or attendants. With an abundant supply of pure air and water, wholesome diet, suitable clothing, active exercise, and the most rigid attention to cleanliness, we have enjoyed an immunity from acute disease equal to that of the most favored class of the community. The internal moral administration has been conducted with the usual mild, conciliatory and paternal care, giving to all the patients as much liberty and indulgence as is consistent with their comfort and safety. No harsh personal restraint has been inflicted upon any one, and very seldom has any one been deprived of the free range of the halls. Frequently all have enjoyed their liberty. Occasionally two or three—rarely more than four—have occupied solitary rooms, and these, with a single exception, only for a few days during the paroxysms of furious excitement. Our solitary rooms are large, airy, well ventilated and warmed, and as cheerful and comfortable as they can be made for the mildest form of restraint.

Among so large a number of insane people there always will be some who are periodically noisy, mischievous and filthy. And such only are the subjects of restraint in this hospital. Full details of the condition of the hospital in all its departments are contained in the able and interesting Report of the Superintendent, and the Trustees do not deem it necessary further to repeat them here.

We have had the misfortune to be deprived, a part of the year, of the valuable services of our excellent Superintendent, who, partly through the fault of the Trustees, and partly from his own willingness to assume labors beyond his power of endurance, became exhausted by over-work, and was thus for a time disabled for the performance of the duties of his office. The Trustees deemed it advisable that he should be relieved at once from his labors, and that he should absent himself from these scenes of care and responsibility, and seek restoration to health by recreation and travel, and in visiting places and friends abroad. Therefore the Trustees promptly gave him leave of absence for four months, and we are happy to say that at the end of that period his health and strength were sufficiently restored to enable him to resume the duties of his office, which he has since successfully and satisfactorily performed, and his health is still becoming more confirmed.

During the absence of Dr. Bemis the superintendence of the hospital was committed to Dr. Joseph Draper, the Assistant-Physician, who was favored by the aid of Dr. John R. Lee, formerly, for many years, a very competent and faithful Assistant-Physician here, and who was providentially here on a visit at the time. The affairs of the institution were conducted by Dr. Draper to the entire satisfaction of the Trustees, the customary good order and discipline being fully maintained. Dr. Draper truly merited, as he received, the high appreciation of the Trustees for fidelity to his trust.

The Trustees desire to express their approbation of the plan suggested by Dr. Bemis in his Report, for erecting near the hospital two or more separate dwellings for the accommodation of convalescents, and all these fitted for the enjoyment of the quietude and amenities of the family circle, with apparent freedom from all restraint, and apart from the noisy gibberish to which they are sometimes exposed in the common halls. We refer to his Report without repeating its details.

The Trustees cannot close their Report without the renewed expression of their entire confidence in the skill and judgment of Dr. Bemis the Superintendent.

The financial affairs of the institution have been prudently and skilfully managed during the last year by the Treasurer, Daniel W. Bemis. All our old outstanding accounts and liabilities, which for some years past have caused some degree of apparent though not real confusion in our pecuniary condition, have been adjusted, and a clear statement of their exact condition is now exhibited in the Report of the Treasurer.

When the Worcester Hospital was established by the State, it was a pioneer institution. There was no model after which to pattern, and no experience to guide in its construction, or in the relative location of its appurtenances.

As medical and sanitary science progressed and experience was gained, it was discovered that great imperfections existed in the original construction and arrangements. The method of warming and ventilation was found to be expensive and very inefficient, besides being dangerous from exposure to fire. The out-buildings, stables and piggery, and the old solitary cells for the violent and filthy, were becoming offensive from their proximity to the halls—thus endangering the health as well as offending the senses of the inmates. After several years of deliberation and consideration of many plans for averting these evils, the Trustees, in the year 1855, undertook their removal. They were authorized, by Acts of the legislature from time to time, to make removals, alterations and repairs. The barn and piggery were first removed, and placed at a commendable distance from the house. The old gloomy and filthy cells were demolished; the old furnaces, and also the kitchens in the basements, were removed, and many other improvements made in the interior of the main building and in the wings, halls and dormitories. The ground having been cleared, a tall steam-chimney was erected at a safe distance from the halls; a steam-engine, with four boilers, was purchased, and a complete apparatus for warming and ventilating the whole establishment, with a capacious conduit, for conveying either warm or cool fresh air into every department. A bakery and cooking apartment, wash-room, and laundry and work-rooms, were included in a building contiguous to, but outside, the walls of the hospital buildings; also, a neat and commodious chapel, communicating with the centre building. Many other things were done, but it is unnecessary to enumerate further. When the work was once begun, there was no stopping point till it was completed. These improvements, or rather this reconstruction,—for such it was to a great extent,—was made under authority of the legislature, to expend money “for permanent repairs or improvements, which, in their (Trustees) judgment, will promote the interest of said hospital.”

The work of removal and reconstruction was begun, and nearly or quite completed in the year 1855, at a cost of $49,362.88.

By this the hospital was put in a very complete sanitary condition; and the almost perfect immunity from any form of acute disease since that date, vindicates the wisdom of the then Trustees in making the expenditure. But the cost was to be paid from the surplus funds of the hospital. The legislature made no appropriation for any part of it. The funds of the hospital are derived from two sources only, viz., from donations of private individuals, and the profit on the board of private and town patients,—at present only from private patients. The surplus money in the treasury not being sufficient to meet this large expenditure, a debt was necessarily entailed on the hospital. It was contemplated, however, by the Superintendent and Trustees, that the surplus income of a few years would suffice to extinguish this debt, without recourse to the State for aid. In ordinary times it would, doubtless, have been cancelled.

Since the beginning of the war, 1861, and the consequent advance in the price of provisions, and of everything pertaining to the support of the hospital, we have been unable to more than meet the current expenses of living and necessary repairs.

It became necessary, about two years ago, to rebuild the dam from which we obtained our water supply, and to renew our aqueduct, the old one being of insufficient capacity and much out of repair. A grant of $4,000 was obtained from the State; but the job cost us $6,000, although much of the ordinary labor was done by our own patients. This, however, was paid, without increasing the debt. This debt, varying during the last ten years from $20,000 to $15,000, has been carried by the hospital by temporary loans. It has not been introduced into the annual reports of the Trustees: first, because it was considered a renewal or construction debt, and had no particular relation to the current expenses of the hospital; and, secondly, because it was confidently expected, until some time after the beginning of the rebellion, that, in a few years, it might be paid by the surplus income of the hospital, without making the cost of board burdensome to private patients.

In view of the above facts, and seeing no probability of diminution of current expenses, at least for some years to come, and in consideration of the inadequate allowance by the legislature for the support of State patients, constituting nearly one-third of our whole number, the allowance being insufficient to pay even the actual cost of board, the Trustees respectfully petitioned the legislature, at its last session, for an appropriation of the sum of $15,000, to enable us to remove this incubus from our shoulders, and once more place the hospital in a condition to dispense its beneficence to the largest number possible, and at the lowest cost possible, consistent with proper care for the health, comfort and safety of its patients.

The Trustees believed the prayer of their petition was both reasonable and just. But the petition was never acted upon by the legislature.

In a former report of the Trustees, in which the financial balances between the State and the hospital were fully exhibited, it appears that a large proportion of the expense, not only of repairs and improvements, but of the original cost of the establishment as it now stands, has been paid by the earnings of the hospital itself, together with donations from private individuals.*

In order to keep pace with the advancement of medical and sanitary science, and to furnish the best appliances for the restoration of physical and mental health to our patients, repairs and improvements, in some one or other department, are continually needed. These, we shall not be able speedily to supply, under the weight of our present burden and prospective high cost of materials and labor.

Having presented this brief statement of facts in relation to our pecuniary condition, the Trustees here leave the matter; respectfully commending it to the favor of your Excellency and the next legislature.

Very respectfully submitted by the Trustees.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

To the Trustees of the Worcester Lunatic Hospital.

GENTLEMEN :—In obedience to the laws of the Commonwealth, I submit to you the Thirty-Fourth Annual Report of the Worcester Lunatic Hospital for the year ending September 30th, 1866.

For the operations of the year in detail you are respectfully referred to the following tables, and such brief explanations and remarks as accompany them.

Showing the general results during the Year.

	Males.	Females.	Total.
Patients in the Hospital Oct. 1, 1865, . . .	169	172	341
admitted during the year . . .	163	126	289
Whole number under treatment, . . .	332	298	630
Discharged recovered, . . .	42	47	89
improved, . . .	58	37	95
not improved, . . .	15	10	25
Died, . . .	27	13	40
Whole number discharged during the year, .	142	107	249
remaining September 30, 1866,	190	191	381

Thus it will be seen that the number of patients in the hospital at the beginning of the year was three hundred and forty-one, of whom one hundred and sixty-nine were males and one hundred and seventy-two were females.

The number admitted during the year was two hundred and eighty-nine, of whom one hundred and sixty-three were males and one hundred and twenty-six were females.

The whole number under treatment during the year was six hundred and thirty, of whom three hundred and thirty-two were males and two hundred and ninety-eight were females.

The whole number discharged during the year was two hundred and forty-nine, of whom one hundred and forty-two were males and one hundred and seven were females.

The whole number remaining in the hospital is three hundred and eighty-one, of whom one hundred and ninety are males and one hundred and ninety-one are females.

Of the two hundred and forty-nine patients discharged, eighty-nine were discharged as recovered, and have returned to their homes and friends, and have resumed the ordinary duties and activities of life ; and ninety-five were discharged as improved. Many of this class have returned to their former occupations, and some of them are filling places of responsibility and trust, and are performing their duties in a manner satisfactory to their friends and employers. Others, though not recovered, have become so tranquil and are so much improved in health of body and mind as to cause their relatives and friends but little anxiety, and to require from them but a small amount of care and direction.

The recoveries were in the ratio of thirty per cent. to the whole number admitted ; or a fraction more than twenty-four per cent. to the average number under treatment ; or fourteen per cent. to the whole number in the hospital during the year ; or forty per cent. to the whole number discharged, after deducting the number of those who died. The recoveries were also in the ratio of sixty-three per cent. to the number of those whose insanity had existed less than one year, and only ten per cent. to the number of those who had been insane more than one year previous to admission to the hospital.

You will readily see that the percentage of recoveries is somewhat less than the average of preceding years, a result due in part to the fact that a larger proportion of admissions than usual took place toward the end of the year ; and these cases are of course still under treatment ; and in part, also, to the fact that a large number of the admissions in the early part of the year were chronic cases.

The ratio of deaths to the whole number under treatment was six per cent., and ten per cent. the average number of residents.

In looking over the records of the hospital, we find that seven thousand six hundred and fourteen patients—three thousand seven hundred and eighty-three males, and three thousand eight hundred and thirty-one females—have been admitted into the hospital since it was opened in January, 1833. Of this number three thousand five hundred and sixty-seven have recovered, giving a ratio of nearly fifty per cent., after deducting the number of those who still remain under treatment.

One thousand four hundred and nineteen patients have been discharged improved in health of body and mind, very many of whom have passed a long period of time in great comfort, and are, and have been, useful members of the communities in which they live. The number of those discharged as improved, added to the number of recoveries, makes the number of those who have received benefit by a residence in this hospital four thousand nine hundred and eighty-six.

Thus much the hospital has been the means, in some measure at least, of accomplishing. It has certainly been instrumental in sending back to the world in health and happiness three thousand five hundred and sixty-seven individuals.

It has been the means of giving a tolerable degree of health and comfort to one thousand four hundred and nineteen patients who did not fully recover within its walls, but many of whom were restored to such a measure of health as to enable them to return to their accustomed occupation, and to take charge of their families. And besides all this, it constantly affords security, peace and comfort to a large and troubled household. The hospital has taken from families and friends, from poor-houses and prisons, from the streets and by-ways, the sick and sorrowing, the violent and dangerous, the suicidal and homicidal, and has given back to society, in full possession of mental and physical health, more than fifty per cent. of all it received. It has also relieved and sent back in comparative comfort, though not cured, eighteen per cent. more of the whole number committed to its care.

All this, and more, has been accomplished by the hospital, at the small cost of not more than one hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars to the State for buildings, fixtures and land, and to the patients and the Commonwealth not more than an average of one-half year's support to each individual so returned.

In view of these facts you should enjoy a reasonable degree of satisfaction in the success of your institution, and be encouraged to press upon the legislature such measures as you may deem necessary for its future usefulness and welfare.

The foregoing illustrates the manner of commitment to the hospital, the duration of insanity previous to commitment, and to some extent the status of patients while in the hospital. It appears that there were admitted sixty-seven patients on private bonds, and twenty on bonds from towns; these bonds always being accompanied by certificates from two physicians that the persons for whom applications were made were insane.

One hundred and ninety-three were committed by the probate court, and eight by the board of state charities. A few of those committed by the probate court are persons of property, and are charged at the same rate as private patients. And many of the town patients are committed by the court, the authorities of the towns preferring this method to giving their bonds.

A reference to the table shows also that you have discharged eighty-seven persons who had no settlement in the Commonwealth, and that one hundred and twenty-nine still remain who are supported by the charity of the State, nearly all of whom are of foreign birth.

The greatest number of patients under treatment at any one time during the year was three hundred and ninety-three. The greatest number of private patients one hundred and twenty, of town patients one hundred and fifty-three, and of State patients one hundred and thirty-five.

The weekly average number of inmates was three hundred sixty-eight and six-tenths. The weekly average of private patients was one hundred and twelve and four-tenths; of town patients one hundred and forty-three and eight-tenths; and of State patients it was one hundred and twelve and four-tenths.

The board of state charities have removed to other institutions and to their homes twenty-eight State patients in the course of the year. This number were all recommended to you for discharge previous to their removal, and it is believed that none have been discharged whose mental and physical condition did not make such a measure advisable.

No very feeble person has been removed, and no unusually violent, filthy or destructive patient has been discharged. In all cases where State patients have been removed to other institutions, or to their homes or friends previous to recovery, they have not only been carefully observed by yourselves, but have been visited by the agent of the board of state charities and their cases fully investigated before any steps have been taken to procure their discharge; and when relatives or friends have been known their wishes have always been consulted.

Ten State patients have died in the course of the year.

Less than the usual number of patients have been removed to the State almshouses during the year, and but few have been discharged except to the care of relatives and friends.

For a few, situations have been procured where they could labor and receive wages. Others have been permitted to do such work in the neighborhood as they could find to do, and have received all the profits. Two men have earned and collected more than one hundred dollars each during the year. Several others have earned smaller sums, varying from twenty to fifty dollars each. Two have secured patents on inventions of their own, models of which were made here by the patients.

Three patients eloped in the course of the year, each of whom had on previous occasions escaped from the hospital. A history of their several escapes would form an interesting narrative to all not conversant with hospital life and experience. They all returned to their friends.

The cost of support during the last year, as will be seen by the table, has been very great, but in reality not increased above that of the year preceding. Several of the former years' bills were paid during the year now closed; thus making the cost apparently greater than it really was. There was no essential difference between the years 1865 and 1866 in cost of support.

There is also an apparent discrepancy between the statement in the table and that in the financial statement made to the board of state charities: the latter appearing considerably greater by adding to the expenses the increased amount of assets.

It has been supposed that the debt, for the removal of which you asked legislative assistance last year, accrued from the increased cost of supplies, and that a judicious rise in the price of board would have prevented the evil.

The legislature establishes the price for a large class of our patients, and indirectly governs the price of another large class; and it was thought unwise and unjust to make the remaining class support themselves and assist largely in the support of the others.

But the debt was not created in this manner.

During the last ten or twelve years, more than sixty thousand dollars have been expended in permanent improvements, which the hospital has paid for, and which should properly be charged to construction. While this work was going on, our income was diminished by an Act of the legislature reducing the price paid for board of State paupers, and also by making the hospital pay the salaries of its officers. And it was again diminished before the completion of the work by the breaking out of the rebellion. The following statement will illustrate our relation to the Worcester banks by showing the amount due from the hospital at the end of each year. If, however, any note was lying overdue at the end of the year, it cannot be shown; and thus, in one or two years, the statement may not be exact. It is within the truth.

The table of causes gives various particulars regarding the bodily and mental condition and health of the patients at the time of their admission to the hospital. Very few were in general good health and fair bodily condition when committed to our care. In eighty-six cases their health was injured and their condition reduced, and in a large majority of the remaining cases, their health indifferent and their general condition indicative of danger to life. And in all these cases, their mental condition was aggravating their bodily lesions. In some, this alone was connected with the derangement of their general health; but there were various other diseases complicating many of the cases, as epilepsy, paralysis, hysteria, anæmia, cerebral and spinal congestion and irritation, dyspepsia, uterine diseases, and diseases of the heart, and disordered conditions of the liver.

In many such cases, when insanity is dependent on organic disease, we can expect to do but little more than palliate the symptoms. There is no hope of recovery. Appropriate treatment may, and often does, retard the progress of disease, both mental and bodily, and the patients may even enjoy sufficient tranquillity of mind to enable them to arrange their affairs, and give such advice and direction as they would before their illness have wished.

There is also a class of cases depending on shocks to the nervous system, which are productive of insanity, and in which there are attendant bodily derangements which require the aid of the physician to promote removal.

Another class of patients, with broken constitutions and with various chronic degenerations, whose mental faculties are completely destroyed, are often sent to end their days in the hospital; namely, those incapacitated by old age—the time of life at which this occurs varying with each individual. Others are sent who have inherited a low mental organization, and they, at an early period of life, break down and become helpless, and dependent on others for the performance of every office of daily life.

Another large class are those who are the subjects of epilepsy, which, in its progress, induces complete prostration of the mental faculties with some, and with others a great irritability of the passions and excitement of the mind, which run into an attack of mania, attended with violent mental disturbance, the presence of delusions and hallucinations which render the patient often furious and dangerous, and very difficult of control and management.

Many cases, which have suffered from slight apoplexy and paralysis, terminate in mental aberration and impairment of the mind, and live for years in the hospital a dreamy kind of existence, incapable of any mental effort, and unable to manage themselves or their affairs.

It is quite common to have patients brought to the hospital suffering from an attack of acute mania, in whom the lungs are in a state of active disease. You will remember some such cases when the patients died soon after admission.

Others have been sent, in whom a typhoid condition has been developed by long continued violent excitement, attended with general functional derangement of all the organs essential to health and life.

Defective nutrition and various dyspeptic conditions are observed in many of those admitted, which probably induced insanity by interfering with healthy nutrition.

Little more need be said in the Annual Report, of treatment, medical or moral; but a few words may not be amiss. Moral treatment of the insane consists in occupation, recreation, education and amusement; but, in order to secure these, great difficulty is often, nay, always experienced. It is difficult to secure sufficient novelty and variety; it is also difficult to present matters to the insane mind in a manner which will be pleasing and instructive, and it is difficult to fasten the attention so as to interest the patient. Hence it is necessary to vary constantly the means of instruction and amusement. What we succeed in to-day, fails to-morrow. Last winter we had courses of lectures illustrated by experiment, alternated with music and magic-lantern scenes. Then, in the spring, social reunions, and in summer, concerts, picnic parties, &c. This coming winter we propose to have historical and geographical lectures illustrated by the stereoscopticon, alternated with views of picture galleries and works of art found in the old world. Add to this the frequent familiar conversation clubs, the chapel exercise, and an idea is given of moral treatment.

Of the medical treatment we have still less to say, except that occasional cathartic tonics and a moderate supply of stimulants constitute the bulk of our materia medica. Drugs are comparatively little used, and yet, whenever any pathological reason exists for the administration of any medicine, it is of course freely used. Cathartics and tonics are perhaps more frequently used than all other medicines. A generous supply of nourishing food and a discreet use of tonics and stimulants seems to be imperatively demanded by all the feeble patients and nearly all chronic cases. Declining health and strength must be sustained; the feeble powers of digestion and assimilation must be provoked and supplied.

But cathartics always enter somewhat largely into the medical treatment of the insane. Perhaps we do not fully understand the close relation existing between the brain and stomach. No doubt, much of the uneasiness and morbid sensibility from which so many of our patients suffer—that condition of mind which cannot be cheered by hope or diverted by pleasure—is frequently nothing more than the natural result of the sympathy existing between the morbid condition of the alimentary canal and the brain.

Humiliating it is, and must be, to admit the frailty of man to such a degree that a slightly overtasked stomach or a torpid condition of the bowels will cloud all his worldly prospects, render him dissatisfied with life and all its blessings, make him suspicious of his friends and jealous of his own household; but it cannot be denied; and the care of that disordered state of the imagination, so often observed in this class of our patients, and their restoration to the best state of manhood, may often be brought about by the means directed to relieve the diseased state of the stomach and bowels, particularly if coupled with cheerful out-of-door exercise and pleasant companionship.

The process may be slow, but if perseveringly followed will generally be crowned with success.

The mortality of the year, as is elsewhere shown, was at the rate of ten per cent. on the average number of patients in the hospital during the year; and calculated on the total number under treatment, six per cent. For the male patients, as frequently happens, the rate was considerably higher; the difference of the ratios probably depending on the greater immunity from diseases of the brain and nervous system which the females enjoyed. Two patients at the time of their death were more than eighty years of age, two others were more than seventy, and six were between sixty and seventy.

Five patients died within three weeks of the time of their admission, and seven others within two months of their admission. Twenty-five of the patients admitted during the year have already died. Six died quite suddenly: two while asleep, and two others so suddenly that no change could have been anticipated, and no suffering, mental or physical, experienced.

Thirteen of the deaths were ascribed to the various diseases of the cerebro-spinal system: as paralysis, or epilepsy and apoplexy. Nine were ascribed to diseases affecting the organs of circulation and respiration; eight to diseases affecting the organs of assimilation. Two were the result of old age, and eight were the result of influences which insanity directly exercised over their bodily health, and terminated in exhaustion, with little, if any, secondary disease.

Notwithstanding the very considerable bill of mortality, the general health of the patients has been good throughout the entire year, and no disease of an epidemic character has been observed in the hospital.

Diseases of the brain and other parts of the nervous system which have been present, existed in connection with insanity. Under these a large number of patients labored at the time of their admission, their lives being sustained and prolonged by great care and attention during a progressive decline of bodily and mental health. A large number of such patients are still under treatment, of whose recovery not the slightest hope can be entertained. Could such cases, as well as all others, be sent to the hospital in the early stage of their disease, it is probable that judicious treatment might relieve a much larger proportion than can otherwise be expected. Early and efficient treatment, when the disease of the brain and cerebro-spinal system is in its first stages, and unattended with change of structure in these nervous centres, is the all-important consideration.

Your attention has often been called to a class of patients committed to our care as being apparently improper subjects for hospital treatment—allusion is now made to the feeble and aged—those who suffer from no undue excitement, who are neither homicidal nor suicidal, and who do not require any extraordinary plans for safety and security.

There have been committed during the year nine persons each more than seventy years of age, and two of whom were more than eighty years old, and three others between sixty-three and seventy years of age. In some of these cases the friends and guardians readily admitted that the patients were brought here to spend the remnant of their days. Of course no treatment can be of much service to such patients. Proper attention to hygienic rules is all that can be suggested. They come to us in the last stages of declining health, “when the years have come in which they have no pleasure.” Worn out by the cares and trials of a long life, and it may be by sorrow and suffering, they are objects of incessant care and anxiety, and become burdens to their families and friends. When at last they are brought to the hospital, the fatigue of the journey frequently destroys their little remaining strength, and they sink and die at once. If not, the new and strange surroundings, the absence of familiar faces, the loss of comforts, the well-known easy chair, the old cozy room and bed, the accustomed food, and above all the kind offices of the faithful family physician, give such a shock to their sensibilities as to render them objects of the utmost pity. There is great impropriety in committing this class to our care. They cannot recover under any circumstances, and but seldom improve. Kindness, sympathy, humanity, dictate that their waning existence should be made cheerful and attractive by all the delicate attentions of home, family and friends.

The products of the farm have been more abundant than ever before, and the crops were grown without any additional expense in paid labor. The usual amount of labor has been expended in reclaiming lands, in draining, blasting and sinking rocks, in fencing and transplanting trees, and in improving, in a variety of ways, the value of the estate. Much yet remains to be done to ornament and improve the grounds, and make them pleasant and attractive. The old drive-way in front should be speedily abandoned, and the space graded and planted out with shrubbery, thus widening the lawn to Summer Street. The employment of patients has, as in former years, received considerable attention, and but few of those able to labor and safe to be trusted with tools are found unwilling to engage in some sort of occupation. Many of those employed, however, are both physically and mentally incapable of any great exertion. The little they do is for their own good and not for the benefit of the hospital. By steady employment in light and cheerful labor they are prevented from sinking lower in health of body and mind, their feelings of self-respect are kept alive and active, and their habits of usefulness prolonged.

Among our patients there are comparatively few mechanics, and the several shops and work-rooms, when used at all, are occupied mostly by persons not trained to any trade or calling which can at present be pursued here without adding very considerably to the current expenses of the institution. It is to be hoped that the time is not far distant when tradesmen can be employed for the care and instruction of certain classes of male patients, and they be trained to some degree of skill in the various mechanical callings. Such an enterprise would involve the expense of two or three additional men of tact and skill to manage and carry on whatever work was begun.

No kind of labor, however, is so beneficial to the male patients, in a great majority of cases, or so useful to the hospital, as the cultivation of the farm and the care of the farm stock. The exercise in the open air, the apparent freedom enjoyed, the kind of labor, calling into play nearly all the muscles of the body, imperceptibly improves their condition and promotes their recovery. Then, too, the deep interest some take in the progress of the operations in which they are engaged, and the great pleasure others enjoy in caring for the various animals kept upon the farm, aid very much in restoring their minds to a normal condition.

The female patients are perhaps sufficiently employed in sewing, cooking, washing, and the various household duties incident to a large and crowded hospital, and their labor is reduced to something like system.

The sewing-rooms have each their cheerful company of sewers. The ironing-room always presents a scene of activity, and is daily filled with nearly the same group, except as now and then one recovers her health and leaves for home. The laundry and kitchens have their own assistants from the wards, upon which they depend, and without which they could not well succeed.

That labor of course is most useful to the hospital which it needs for its own assistance and support. How much is accomplished in this direction will be best illustrated by a reference to the accompanying tables. But the cultivation of a few acres of land, the growing of some small crops, the making or repairing of a few useful articles, is the least of all possible benefits to the insane. In another point of view, however, these little matters assume a large importance. Cheerful labor, especially in the open air, does much towards restoring the insane to health. It banishes harassing doubts and perplexities, dissipates distressing delusions and brings quiet to the troubled mind and sleep to wakeful eyes. In providing occupation for the insane, the healthy powers of the mind are brought into activity, and thus the diseased faculties are afforded tranquillity and repose. It is not enough, however, to provide the means for labor alone, nor is it sufficient to combine intellectual and manual labor. In the care and treatment of the insane nothing should be omitted, no means should be withheld which will have the slightest tendency to draw back the intellectual faculties to their best estate. The only way in which this can be accomplished is by operating upon the healthy faculties, and thus avoid irritation and excitement. It is not enough that we buy books and newspapers, pictures and maps; patients must be induced to read and examine. It is not sufficient that you open music rooms and billiard rooms; patients must play regularly and systematically. They must have not only work and play, but they must also have some daily mental exercise suited to their capacity and their normal taste. Patients must not be suffered to lounge about the wards, gradually losing both bodily and mental tone and vigor, and becoming daily more and more indifferent to all about them save, perhaps, the quality and quantity of their food. The poor lunatic is disinclined to mental or manual labor because his mind is pre-occupied by diseased fancies; still he is alive to the stimulus of emulation, rewards and punishments, and can be acted upon through the remaining healthy faculties. But how? By increased facilities for various kinds of labor in workshops, with skilful tradesmen; by more extensive farming operations, and by a greater variety and abundance of opportunities to engage in that best of all occupations ; by giving out small parcels of ground to such as desire it, for their own special cultivation and management, and thus securing to that class the boon of occupation without irritation or fatigue ; by lectures, by reading and conversation clubs ; by cheerful, well-furnished apartments ; by greenhouses and conservatories ; and by all the means of pleasure and profit which ingenuity can devise and labor accomplish ; but, above all, by well-trained, competent and thoroughly devoted assistants in every department, who will religiously fulfil every obligation, and give certainty and efficiency to all the operations of the institution ; who will respect the rights, anticipate the wants and obey the calls of the weakest and feeblest as well as the most cheerful and companionable of those under their charge ; who will, by patient attention, win the love of the most wayward, by kind and approving demeanor give courage and strength to the faltering ; and who will, by perseverance, so cheerfully and kindly restrain the vicious, that restraint will be deprived of its horror and abuse.

It will be remembered that I have expressed in former reports my hopes and fears upon this subject. During the last summer a plan has been put in operation by which some effort will be made to give to the attendants some special information upon the peculiar duties and responsibilities of their position. It is to be hoped, if health and strength does not fail, that we shall be able, by lectures and familiar conversation upon special topics, to explain the nature of their duties and obligations, and assist in raising them to an appreciation of their responsibility, and to a capacity to discharge with fidelity and discretion the duties imposed on them. In their familiar conversations the various phases of insanity have been spoken of, and the relations of the insane to the community, to the family and friends, and to the hospital and to the attendants, were spoken of so far as could be of use to the hearers. Moral treatment, so far as it is dependent upon impressions received from nurses and attendants, the influence of pleasing sights, of kind words, of gentle manners, of forgiving dispositions, has been also discussed with much freedom.

The great object being to impress the understanding and awaken the sympathies and affections by showing that insanity was a disease, a misery, the greatest of all misfortunes, which was to be relieved and made endurable so far as kindness, forbearance and consoling words have power to mitigate human suffering. That mental disease was not a violent passion to be resisted, a perversity of the will to be opposed, or evil spirit to be subjugated, but the most dreadful of all maladies that can afflict the human race. And further to show, if possible, various personal peculiarities, so that patients might be aided in the right direction to recover their self-control, to show what might be hoped and what feared in each individual case, and what permitted and guarded against. But, above all, to prove in every possible manner, by illustration and by example, that every attendant with whom the patient comes in contact must and does increase or diminish that patient's comfort and happiness, and that it is especially important that first impressions should be agreeable and hopeful, not clouded by fear, or distressed by undue severity; that the first greetings should always be warm, cordial and cheerful, let the recipient be what he may. Thus much and more has been attempted, and is still being pursued. But how far short of our aims we have fallen, let our oft expressed hopes and fears testify. Our corps of attendants and assistants, drawn from the middle ranks of society, sons and daughters of well-to-do families, many of them having been country school teachers, seeking for the time being what will pay best, having as yet no settled ideas as to their future course in life, but ready to adopt any mode of life or to engage in any business that will offer the surest road to a position, character and respectability, cannot at present be expected to remain permanently with us, however useful they may prove to be. The merchant, the manufacturer, the master mechanic, can and does increase the pay and exalt the condition of such assistants as are most useful to him. But not so here. Let it be said with shame, young men and women who devote themselves to the care of the insane perform duties to which few are equal, and are but poorly paid. No system of rewards, no prospect of comfort in the future,—what can induce attendants upon the insane to retain their places after having become competent to perform their duties? The few who are worthy and do remain, do so at the loss of comfort, competency and position. This leads me to the consideration of another question at which I have hinted in many former annual reports, and that is, new and improved accommodations for the insane, in which they can be comfortably cared for and successfully treated.

It will be remembered that mention was made of a plan which seemed desirable, and which it is believed the trustees of this hospital could carry out without difficulty and without involving the State in any great expense. It does not seem proper to make any undue haste in the matter, and it is hardly desirable to take steps at present beyond a fair consideration of the question. The plan is simply this: to put into the market at some future time certain lands belonging to the hospital and where the buildings now stand, occupying the same until rebuilt in some more desirable locality upon an improved plan. These lots, about twenty-five acres, have been appraised for three years in succession for about one hundred thousand dollars, leaving the buildings and eighty-five acres of most desirable land still belonging to the hospital.

If we look carefully at the matter, we shall find that the lot upon which the hospital stands contains twelve acres, which at twenty-five cents per foot, would amount to the sum of one hundred and thirty thousand six hundred and eighty dollars. The lot upon which the stables stand contains four acres, which at fifteen cents per foot, would amount to the sum of twenty-six thousand one hundred and thirty-six dollars. Other lots, adjacent to Mulberry and Pine Streets, containing ten acres, at ten cents per foot, would amount to the sum of forty-three thousand five hundred and sixty dollars, making a total of two hundred thousand three hundred and seventy-six dollars, leaving all the building material, fixtures, furniture, stock and tools, with eighty-five acres of land in one lot nearly square, upon which is a pond of pure water and a well-grown grove of trees, the only objection being that it is high and difficult of access. It is within the mile circle of the city and three different routes can be shown to the highest point, which are not so steep or rugged as to be difficult.

It is believed that within ten years from the present time the whole thing may be accomplished without asking for one dollar from the State treasury.

The age demands, the wants of the insane demand, your patrons demand, more extensive comforts, a better class of accommodations, an improved style of architecture, greater facilities for classification, treatment, recreation and amusement.

Could some plan like this be adopted a very great advance might be made upon any existing arrangements for the care and recovery of the insane. Will not Massachusetts, the State which is foremost in so many matters of public interest, consider the necessity and propriety of making, at so little cost, some new and improved arrangement for her most unfortunate children? Will she not be willing to create for the insane a model institution, when it can be done almost without cost?

In view of what the hospital has done, and may do with increased facilities, will she not, at some not far distant day, make the experiment? Is she willing to condemn the insane to small, inconvenient and crowded apartments, simply because, in such, life can be sustained at a less expense?

We hope to see, and believe the time will come, when we shall have in the heart of the Commonwealth a hospital for the insane, constructed upon the best plan for classification and treatment of the various mental disorders which affect the human race. When we shall have the centre building the hospital proper, with every facility for treating all cases of acute mania, and for all violent and dangerous, suicidal and troublesome cases, having every arrangement and convenience which skill and ingenuity can devise—large, airy sleeping and day rooms, improved facilities for bathing, perfect ventilation, cozy libraries, spacious parlors, convenient billiard and play rooms; and near by, a few plain, neat and substantial cottages, capable of accommodating a family of eight or ten quiet, harmless, industrious persons; and not far remote, two or three houses of more style and pretension, for a class of people found in every hospital, where they could live in a quiet family, devoting themselves to reading, writing, and the cultivation of gardens and such light occupations as their health would allow. All these houses would be under the charge of old and well trained attendants, who would there find inducements to remain and make the care of the insane a life business.

There would be, of course, the chapel and lecture-room in common. The laundry and bakery, the warming apparatus, the engine house, the stables and farm buildings, all in common for the whole. The great benefit, it seems to us, to be derived from so wide a departure from all accustomed rules, is a near approach to the family system, and the kindly influences of home treatment. Could this system, or some similar one, be carried into operation, the insane would have all the benefits they now have, with the added advantage of the family circle, to such as could be admitted to its enjoyments, homely surroundings, and the enjoyment of many of the social comforts which make life pleasant. They would have also the advantage of well trained, educated nurses and attendants, whose business for life it would be to care for and sympathize with them. They would enjoy a more free and generous style of amusement, recreation and exercise, and more frequently, and with less restraint, mingle in the society of friends and relatives; in a word, all the enjoyments of life would be multiplied, and all the social endearments to a very great extent preserved without diminishing in any way the prospect of recovery or increasing the labors of the institution.

All the plans for the amelioration of suffering described in former reports have been employed with vigor during the past year, and an increased effort has been made to carry all such measures to a greater extent, and multiply all facilities for similar purposes.

In this recapitulation of certain statements made in my last annual report to your board, I desire only to present a few of the most prominent reasons in favor of adopting, at some future day, a new and improved plan for the care, custody and treatment of the insane of all classes, and I hope hereafter to be able to present the subject in such a manner as to claim attention.

The usual recreations and amusements have all been conducted with unabated interest and vigor. The billiard rooms, reading rooms, libraries, and music room, afford the means of intellectual culture and occupation by the very generous supply of books, papers and periodicals which are to be found in them. Some slight additions have been made to the library, and some one hundred and fifty newspapers find their way weekly into the wards and reading rooms.

A course of about thirty lectures was delivered during the winter and spring, which were listened to with great interest by about two hundred and fifty of the patients and their attendants, and during the spring and summer several concerts were enjoyed by the inmates.

All our accustomed means of occupation, amusement and healthy recreation have been pursued with vigor and advantage. The record of work done in and about the house, gardens, shops and on the farm, and the quantity of produce from the farm will testify to the amount of profitable work done.

The picnic parties, fishing excursions, daily drives, games of base-ball, croquet, and all the other usual out-of-door and in-door games and amusements, may be mentioned as our principal sources of recreation.

Our heartfelt thanks are due to Miss Dix for many kind attentions in behalf of our patients.

From the publishers of the "Massachusetts Spy," "Palladium," and the "Worcester Evening Gazette," we receive the daily and weekly issues, and large bundles of well selected exchanges, giving a full supply of late papers from all parts of the country.

From the periodical office of S. Thompson & Co., we also receive liberal donations of illustrated papers and magazines.

For many years we have been under obligation to the publishers of the "Boston Advertiser," "Salem Register," "Zion's Herald," "Religious Magazine," "Youth's Companion," "Gospel Messenger," "Essex County Mercury," and "Old Colony Memorial," and many other papers and periodicals, all of which are gratefully received.

We desire also to express our sense of obligation to the many friends who have contributed to the welfare of our patients during the year, among whom may be specially mentioned Mrs. Sumner, who has so kindly taken charge of our choir, and given beside several concerts in sacred music; Miss Souther, who has also assisted us with her musical talent; to Dr. J. R. Lee, for valuable and interesting lectures on the Holy Land; Professor James Bushee, for his course of illustrated lectures on chemistry and kindred subjects; and to Rev. George

Allen, for his timely and judicious assistance, and supplying the chapel desk for a large part of the year.

It is my duty as well as pleasure to record my sense of personal obligation to the other resident officers and assistants who have faithfully carried out all my plans, and devoted themselves wholly to the interest of the institution; but especially am I indebted to the Steward and Treasurer, D. W. Bemis; to my assistants, Joseph Draper, M. D., and John R. Lee, M. D.; and my Supervisors, Marshall S. Greene and Miss Pamela Williams, for their kindness and perseverance, and thorough devotion to the interests of the hospital during my illness and absence.

For the kindness, assistance, forbearance, cordial council and support I have at all times received from each individual member of your board, allow me to renew the expression of my deep sense of gratitude.

I beg to congratulate you on the retrospect of the year. It has been one of prosperity, and, we fondly hope, of progress, during which great good has been accomplished, much suffering alleviated, and many happy recoveries effected.

With renewed confidence in the strength of Him who has sustained us amid the labors of the past, we cheerfully commence the duties of another year, trusting that by his guidance we may perform them well.

MERRICK BEMIS.

Patients will be received into the hospital at any time, if the following conditions are complied with :

If the patient is in indigent circumstances, and has no settlement in any town in the Commonwealth, the Probate Court, or if in the city of Boston, the Superior Court, will issue a warrant for the commitment of the patient to the hospital. The State will then pay the cost of support, and the county from which the patient is sent will pay the expenses of the commitment.

If the patient is in indigent circumstances, and has a settlement in any town in the Commonwealth, the Overseers of the Poor of that town may give a bond for the support of the patient. Or, when this is inconvenient, an application may be made to the Probate Court of the county where the patient resides, and a warrant will be issued for the commitment of the patient to the hospital, and the town will be held responsible for the support of the patient.

In all other cases a bond from responsible persons, as principal and surety, will be required for the expenses of the patient while in the hospital.

In all cases, before admission to the hospital, two physicians, one of whom shall be the family physician, must certify that the patient is insane.

All necessary clothing must be supplied by the friends of the patients.

Clothing will be supplied at the hospital, if desirable, and charged in the bills at cost.

Damages done to the furniture and other property to the amount of fifty dollars may also be charged.

Reasonable charges will be made in case of elopement, and funeral charge in case of death.

All bills are collected by the Treasurer quarterly, or interest charged on the same after becoming due.

Bills become due on the first of January, April, July and October, and when the patient leaves the hospital.
